'UNWILLING' WHITES INVITED TO GO HOME

BLANTYRE (Reuters)—Dr. Hastings Banda, leader of the victorious Malawi Congress party in Tuesday's general elections in Nyasaland, said today that whites who are unwilling to accept the right of Negroes to govern themselves "should pack up and go home." (See story, Page 3.)

Telephones, Power Hit By Spectacular Storm

The worst of four lightning bolts that crashed to earth in Saanich Tuesday afternoon damaged a Cedar Hill house and knocked out power and telephones in the area.

The spectacular storm came in a general rain and wind storm that whipped Greater Victoria and dumped a badly-needed 22 of an inch of moisture on parched woods and fields.

An explosive flash dazzled Jack Marson, his wife and three children of 3971 Cedar Hill Cross Road, just as they were about to celebrate the father's birthday in their kitchen dining nook shortly after 5 p.m.

"It sounded like a great big cannon," said 11-year-old Jacqui Marson, who got a second fright while later when a light fixture blew up as she switched it on.

The family had returned on right in our faces," Mrs. Marson added.

"But it could have been a lot worse. We're all okay," she said.

A corner of the eaves on the adjoining dining room, just outside the kitchen windows, was blasted open as if a giant sledge had been swung at it, spilling woodwork and insulation to the ground.

There was no fire, although the house was filled with smoke from the sizzling lightning bolt and burned wiring.

TROUBLE PRONE

The neighborhood seems prone to trouble: when the Marsons were building their home 12 years ago, a tree at the back of the property was struck by lightning, and "the last time we went away the house across the street burned down," Mrs. Marson said.

A big flash came with it.

The family had returned on Monday from a week's cruising in their 30-foot boat.

Mr. Marson was just slipping a knife into his birthday cake—"I'd already made a wish that we could have stayed another week on the boat . . . and all hell broke loose."

AERIAL HIT

The lightning struck the top of a 30-foot television antenna, shattering parts of it and travelling down guy and lead-in wires into the house.

A ground wire over the north end of the long ranch-type dwelling disappeared entirely, leaving scorches and gouges down the side of the house.

Two TV sets were knocked out along with a stereo record player, a deep freeze and the telephone.

In the dining room, two plaster walls and a valance box were burst by the blast.

USES BLOWN

In the basement, three fuses and a carbon lightning tester for the telephone were blown out and a light fixture shattered.

The whole area is still without telephone service.

After the first lightning strike 12 years ago, Mrs. Marson said: "I was always afraid of the big oak tree at the back, and when we were sitting there last night I was just going to say 'I hope it doesn't hit the oak,' when it happened."

Damage to the house and contents is covered by insurance.

SAW STRIKE

Firemen were called to the house by an indirect route after the phones were knocked out.

Mrs. Jennie Harlan, 1269 Garkil, saw the bolt strike, jumped into her car and drove to a corner store, but found its phone also out.

She hailed a passing taxi driven by David Geddes, 1068 Tolmie, who radioed the alarm to his dispatcher, who in turn called Saanich firemen.

Power was off from 5:25 to 6:55 p.m.

OIL STOVE

At the second strike by lightning, wiring was burned out on an oil stove connection at the home of Mrs. A. S.

Fleming, 5118 Patricia Bay Highway, who was at home with her daughter Joan, seven, Elizabeth, three, and a playmate.

There was no damage to the rest of the house.

Another bolt hit west of Beaver Lake, doing no property damage but knocking the telephone from a wall at one house, bursting a light bulb at the home of Mark Knowlson, 4724 West Saanich, and cancelling phone service.

many to meet with Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov.

The hour-long meeting, at Smirnov's request following his return from Moscow Monday, also was attended by West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

A scare hit West Berlin this morning when the overhead railroad, supplied by East German electricity, ground to a halt. But power was restored after 70 minutes and police said "it seems there was a power break after all."

Reports of Western reluctance to counter the tightening East German restrictions came in the wake of a Red threat to repeat the 1948-49 Berlin blockade if the Adenauer government cuts off trade with the east.

GERMANS INDIGNANT

West Berliners already were expressing their indignation over the Western position.

"They're selling us down the river," said one.

"It smacks of Hungary," said another, referring to the West's failure to step in when Soviet troops smashed the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

Adenauer Reassuring

BONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer assured Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov today that planned West German countermeasures against East Germany will not worsen the international situation.

CIVI OFF

Radio station CJVI was off the air for 20 minutes around 7 p.m., but it was not established whether it was through loss of power or other difficulty, a B.C. Electric spokesman said.

Television station CHEK also stopped transmitting the picture part of its program for about the same length of time.

This was traced to blown fuses.

All power difficulties were overcome by about 7 p.m., mostly by replacing blown fuses in the 2300 block of Cadboro Bay Road, the Uplands and scattered points in the city. No lines fell.

LOCAL PHONES

B.C. Telephone Co. said it expects 300 local services will have to be restored. There have been 250 reported out so far and workmen, on the job since 6 a.m., will keep busy since a fall tree, but phone service was restored by 10 p.m.

Most trouble was in the Cedar Hill area, near Richmond in the university district and the Colquitz exchange area.

All toll circuits are in order. On Little Saanich Mountain, an RCMP radio-telephone control was knocked out temporarily, but a standby service maintained communication.

WILDLY cheering crowds of Negroes Tuesday, led by Roman Catholic priest Fulbert Youlou, their president (in white robe), celebrated the first anniversary of independence of the Congo Republic after years of foreign rule as a Belgian colony.

Saanich Beach Costs Increase

Saanich share of costs for maintenance and upkeep of Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks is up about 20 per cent.

comptroller treasurer John Tribe told a finance committee meeting Tuesday.

He said the municipality's share to date is $11,500. This was $1,500 more than provided in this year's budget for the joint operation of parks.

Council instructed Mr. Tribe to seek an explanation for increased costs from Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

Afro-Asian Bloc 'Detached' In View of Berlin Crisis

LONDON (Reuters) — Most he believed neither the U.S. nor Russia wanted to go to war over Berlin.

In Cairo, President Gamal Abdel Nasser said recently that the United Arab Republic supports proposals for a united Germany. Nasser said the current crisis could only be solved by patience and negotiations.

GOOD CASE, BUT . . .

The most common reaction in reports from New Delhi, Cairo, Tunis, Kuala Lumpur and Jakarta was that the Berlin problem could only be resolved by an East-West accord through big-power negotiations.

NEUTRALS CAN'T HELP

This view was held by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India. He told an Indian news magazine he did not believe the neutral powers could help the situation in any way except through expressions of concern.

He warned that the situation might lead to an East-West showdown even though in Tunis, many Tunisian government officials believe France is using the East/West issue to force its allies to support French policy on Bizerte.

Tunisia wants France to leave the naval base.

Le Petit Matin of Tunis said that the "question of Bizerte is much more urgent."

INDIFFERENT TO CRISIS

Perhaps the most indifferent reaction to Berlin was noted in Kuala Lumpur.

The Malayan capital was virtually unmoved by the Berlin developments and news of them was given back-page treatment by several newspapers.

PRISON FIRE KILLS 34

TAUBATE, Brazil (UPI) — Authorities said today a fire in the city jail here which killed at least 34 prisoners Monday night was set by three convicts who also died in the blaze.

Three cell blocks were destroyed by fires set by the prisoners who were planning a mass jail-break.

$20 BILLION PROGRESS AID STAYS WESTERN

Red Advisers for Plan Barred

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Cuban economic czar Ernesto Guevara tried to open the door today to Communist advisers for President Kennedy's $20,000,000 Alliance for Progress but ran into a stone wall.

Delegates from the other 20 American countries at the inter-American economic conference brushed aside Guevara's proposals and in committee unanimously approved a 1,000-word "declaration to the people of America" summing up the new program of economic aid and self-help for Latin America. Cuba abstained.

The declaration is an abridgement of the 3,000-word charter of Punta del Este which sets forth the principles of the program in detail. The shorter declaration was drawn up with the idea that it could be more easily understood by Latin America's masses.

After approval at a conference plenary session today, both will be signed Thursday when the conference closes one day behind schedule.

There was speculation whether Guevara would sign for Cuba. But other Latin-American delegates said even if he did, the U.S.-controlled agencies that will handle the bulk of the financing won't advance any funds to Cuba.

Guevara said his country cannot fully support the program until it gets a "clear and concise answer" from the United States whether Cuba is in or out of the alliance family. U.S. delegates refused to commit themselves.

PROPOSES AMENDMENT

In the late night committee session that finally whipped the declaration into shape, Guevara made his pitch for Communist technicians with an amendment saying that "experts from all over the world"—rather than "independent experts"—could assist Latin American republics in their development plans. This was interpreted as an attempt to give Soviet bloc and Red Chinese experts a foothold in states that will receive U.S. aid under the program.

Guevara also proposed an amendment substituting a promise to promote all sectors of a country's economy for a pledge to stimulate "private activity." This was an obvious effort to favor socialist development and remove official support for private enterprise.

Both amendments failed for lack of a second after Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon warned that it will be "very difficult" for the U.S. public to understand a change eliminating the stimulation of private enterprise.

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — United States spokesman disclosed Tuesday night that leftist mob stole secret U.S. Embassy documents from the burning car of the U.S. ambassador in Caracas, Venezuela, last June.

The spokesman said this was the way Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's regime gained possession of the document revealed at the inter-American economic conference here by Cuban Economic Minister Ernesto Guevara.

Guevara produced the documents after a violent anti-American speech he made at the conference. He claimed the documents showed that the government of Venezuelan President Rómulo Betancourt had been "domesticated" by U.S. imperialists.

The spokesman for the U.S. delegation said a security check prompted by Guevara's speech showed the documents were in a briefcase belonging to Teodoro Moscoso, U.S. ambassador to Venezuela.

A leftist crowd besieged Moscoso's car June 14 and burned the vehicle. The U.S. delegation spokesman said the documents disappeared during the turmoil.

Opposition Joins In South Africa

BLOEMFONTEIN (AP) — South Africa's once-dominant United party and the new National Union party joined forces behind a program of "race federation". Tuesday to oppose the ruling National party and its apartheid policies in the Oct. 18 general election.

But a joint statement issued by the two opposition groups made clear they do not plan to abdicate white control should they win the election.

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill cabled warmest wishes to President Kennedy Tuesday "for momentous and pre-eminent part" he plays in shaping the destiny of the world. Churchill was answering a message from him Monday reaffirming faith in the principles of the Atlantic charter that Churchill signed 20 years ago with the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Reputation of B.C.

IT TOOK THE FINANCIAL COMMUNITY of Canada, the general public, and foreign investors some days to grasp what Mr. Bennett had actually done with the B.C. Electric.

Most of the Legislature obviously did not grasp it at all in a brief, break-neck session. The obedient Social Credit majority cheered the government. The CCF cheered, too, because its own policy had been accepted. Only the Liberal leader, Mr. Perrault; and his chief lieutenant, Mr. Alan Macfarlane, protested the method used to expropriate private property but all their questions were swept aside, unanswered.

Indeed, we wonder whether Mr. Bennett himself realized then how gravely he was infringing the ordinary principles of justice by dictating a price to the B.C. Electric shareholders and leaving them no room for appeal. Anyway, the dangerous implications of this policy are fully understood in Britain, as indicated by such newspapers as The London Sunday Telegraph, and in the United States, as indicated by such newspapers as the Portland Oregonian and others.

The crux of the issue now agitating investors, Canadian and foreign, is not, as the government may pretend, the wisdom of public versus private power. The critics of the government are not necessarily critics of public power—but they are rightly outraged by the government's manner of expropriation, the decision to pay for B.C. Electric stock not what it was really worth but what the fluctuating stock market happened to say it was worth, for the moment, on a certain day.

Mr. Bennett's coup thus established a precedent dangerous to all owners of property, rich and poor, and dangerous also to British Columbia's reputation among investors everywhere.

By this precedent the government can always seize any property at a dictated price, refuse to allow any arbitration by a neutral tribunal—as provided for in its own laws—and block any appeal to the courts. And yet, at the same time, a royal commissioner, appointed by the government, is trying to devise the fairest possible method of expropriation, protecting the interests of the state and the citizen alike.

Thus in the B.C. Electric deal the government not only bypassed the existing laws which provide for

Mr. Khrushchev

Locks the Gate

Berlin—of bare subsistence and drabness with prosperity and color—which is posed by the presence of the democratic West German island in a Communist sea.

In a sense, the flight of discontented East Germans is a safety valve for the satellite nation. It drains off those who, pressed too far, might revolt if escape were not possible.

But the safety valve is apparently emitting too much steam. East German production is suffering from the depletion of labor ranks—and it should be noted that many of the refugees are skilled workers, professional men, teachers, educated persons.

The situation has come to the point where the Communist authorities have had to close the escape border by force—an admission of weakness that has been delayed as long as possible. Now, while Pravda tries to hide the truth from its Russian readers, the metropolis of Berlin lies more divided than ever, the tens of thousands of workers who crossed the border from each side every day halted or hampered in their passage, industries all over the city suffering from disruption, and a public unrest building up on both sides of the barricades which could explode into something much more serious.

Mr. Khrushchev is forcing the play; the West must reply with hundreds of thousands of Germans. He must stop the heavy drain on the East German labor force which their escape imposes. And he would like to stop the side-by-side comparison of East Berlin with West Germany.

This fact has no doubt played a large part in Mr. Khrushchev's determined and at times belligerent moves on Berlin.

He must stop the living proof that Communism is intolerable to hundreds of thousands of Germans. He must stop the heavy drain on the East German labor force which their escape imposes. And he would like to stop the side-by-side comparison of East Berlin with West Germany.

Centennial Project

VICTORIA'S CIVIC NEEDS ARE so great—in public buildings, parks, improvements of all kinds—that an invitation to suggest which project should have priority should result in a ready response.

That is the idea behind the invitation of this newspaper to the public, to submit proposals for a centennial project for next year when the city celebrates its 100th anniversary.

We need many things; but which do we need first?

WHAT DID IT MEAN?

By B. A. TOBIN

Strange Doings at the Arena

IT was really five shows in one. The Russians put on four of them. Any one of their component parts would have provided a good evening's entertainment in itself.

The chorus was tops, the soloists were excellent, the orchestra was wonderful, the dancers were terrific. They were all generous with their encores, and considering the sultry, tropical temperature of the arena that was generously indeed. The Tobin chorus, having begun the concert with God Save the Queen, O Canada and a Russian anthem, obligingly called a five-minute halt while the members stood motionless, and then began all over again with The Queen for the benefit of a couple of hundred Victorians who didn't get there on time.

So perhaps it was only fair that Victorians should put on a show in return—except that the Russian visitors were not able, perhaps, to appreciate its finer points.

The background of the Victorians' show was the amazing flood of goodwill that marked the whole thing. It was easily noticeable long before you got into the building. Among the long queues of people surging through the doors it was an almost tangible thing: an eagerness to accept these visitors on a basis of the fullest friendship.

Trend Reversed

It would have been remarkable in the case of any visiting performers, saving perhaps a Scottish or English troupe, in which case it would be expected. But considering the trend of the news headlines lately it was almost incredible.

With Mr. Khrushchev threatening war, telling various nations how many H-bombs it would take to annihilate them and adding that Russia has them, you would think that there would be some cool looks cast at a couple of hundred Russian soldiers arriving in the city.

By this precedent the government can always seize any property at a dictated price, refuse to allow any arbitration by a neutral tribunal—as provided for in its own laws—and block any appeal to the courts. And yet, at the same time, a royal commissioner, appointed by the government, is trying to devise the fairest possible method of expropriation, protecting the interests of the state and the citizen alike.

Thus in the B.C. Electric deal the government not only bypassed the existing laws which provide for that?

It is something to escape from, where possible, even at the cost of employment, possessions, family, friends and all the constituents that make a place home.

There is nothing theoretical about the statistics of refugees seeking asylum in West Berlin. No dialectics, no arguments, no official press releases can answer the cold figures that day by day, week by week, year after year have mounted as East Germans have fled conditions they found intolerable.

Their reasons for flight may vary, their objectives in a new life may differ, but almost without exception the refugees have found escape the only answer to life under Communism as it is applied in East Germany.

This fact has no doubt played a large part in Mr. Khrushchev's determined and at times belligerent moves on Berlin.

He must stop the living proof that Communism is intolerable to hundreds of thousands of Germans. He must stop the heavy drain on the East German labor force which their escape imposes. And he would like to stop the side-by-side comparison of East Berlin with West Germany.

Mr. Khrushchev is forcing the play; the West must reply with hundreds of thousands of Germans. He must stop the heavy drain on the East German labor force which their escape imposes. And he would like to stop the side-by-side comparison of East Berlin with West Germany.

But the safety valve is apparently emitting too much steam. East German production is suffering from the depletion of labor ranks—and it should be noted that many of the refugees are skilled workers, professional men, teachers, educated persons.

The situation has come to the point where the Communist authorities have had to close the escape border by force—an admission of weakness that has been delayed as long as possible. Now, while Pravda tries to hide the truth from its Russian readers, the metropolis of Berlin lies more divided than ever, the tens of thousands of workers who crossed the border from each side every day halted or hampered in their passage, industries all over the city suffering from disruption, and a public unrest building up on both sides of the barricades which could explode into something much more serious.

Old Name, Old Memories

A NAME crops up in the news and a stream of memories flows from it. Last week The Canadian Press reported Mary Gunnanoot one of three people killed in a car which left the Prince Rupert-Terrace Highway and plunged into the Skeena River. Later information linked her with Simon Gun-an-noot, the almost legendary Indian who eluded the police for 13 years and finally gave himself up to win acquittal on a murder charge.

The Gun-an-noot story started before I was born, with a double murder in 1906. Its main drama had been played through before I joined the Times in the late '20s. But, according to the man in the best position to know, the full story had never been told.

Stuart Henderson promised me the details when just one more person connected with the case had died. Stuart died before the person he was protecting passed on. I never learned the secret.

As the public came to know the Gun-an-noot story, its central figure, Simon, was a fugitive who fled following the rifle killing of two men of mixed blood who had allegedly insulted his wife. Alone he moved through the woods, trapping and hunting, for 13 years while the police sought him unsuccessfully.

Finally he was persuaded by a friendly white man to meet Stuart Henderson and to come in for trial.

Stuart was an extremely successful criminal lawyer. He was an old man when I knew him, with a long nose and a long list of court victories in murder cases behind him. Picturesque—he effected a sort of Wilfrid Laurier hair-do, sucked snooze, and said he wouldn't be able to afford the silk even if the government made him a KC, which it wouldn't—he had become something of a Clarence Darrow figure in my time. The ultra-respectable and somewhat stuffy members of the bar held their reservations about Stuart. Mostly the reservations came from being bested by an astute man who could cut a sharp corner.

But if Stuart Henderson was in his seventies when I knew him, he was still a boy. He begged off a police court hearing one day because he said he wanted to celebrate a birthday.

He picked a fight with Aulay Macaulay Morrison, Chief Justice of the British Columbia Supreme Court and one-time provincial administrator—and refused to settle the dispute with an apology. He dreamed of wealth in a gold mine and put a fortune into holes-in-the-ground speculation.

He liked to talk of Gun-an-noot—a little mysteriously, because that was the type of man he was. Yet he paid the Indian tribute for honesty and many qualities that stirred his admiration.

Somewhere the Gun-an-noot story—one which brought great credit to Stuart Henderson—became woven into his own biography. It carried outlandish elements. There were incidents in which the lawyer met the Indian on the trail; clandestinely, while the police looked for the fugitive. There were strange confidences between Gun-an-noot and his counsel which had nothing to do with the case.

In his last year or two Stuart Henderson recalled one of them. He had met the Indian on a trail. Gun-an-noot had pointed to a mountain nearby, telling his white friend it was full of gold.

The gold mine story ran through the legend like a central core.

In his sparsely furnished office in the Sayward Building, later the Scollard Building, old Stuart, with the dream of a young man, made plans to seek out that hill. He would use the holidays he allowed himself to do it.

If he could once again reach the spot where he and Gun-an-noot had rendezvoused, he could find it—and he knew someone who could take them to the rendezvous.

A name crops up in the news and memories flow—an old man's visions of gold at the foot of a rainbow, if he could only find the foot.

But Stuart Henderson no longer seeks; Gun-an-noot no longer hides.

Nevil Shute Still Best Seller

LONDON—Admirers of Nevil Shute (and there were so many of them that they made him Britain's biggest-selling author) will be glad to learn that Trustee from the Toolroom will not be the last of the Shute novels.

He had completed it just before his death a little over a year ago and it was published posthumously. But there are two more of his novels that have never been published and these will be coming out in September.

They were unearthed by his 29-year-old daughter Heather Norway (Shute's real surname) and she has been in London arranging for their publication.

Heather was Shute's secretary at his farm outside Melbourne in Australia, where he moved as a gesture against Britain being under the Socialists in 1945. She had long known that there were two unpublished novels kept in the drawer of his desk but he would never let her or anybody else look at them.

They were the first two novels he had ever written, back in 1923 and 1924, and their Buddleias have been favorite blue shade. There are, however, some newer varieties available for summer flowering shrubs for years, whether under that name or as Summer-Lilac, or Butterfly-Bush.

Since there are other kinds of buddleias which flower at other seasons we shall have to be specific and say that the summer ones are Buddleia davidi, previously listed as B. variabilis.

The flowers come in tightly-packed cones at the ends of long graceful branches, and most often seen in a mauve

A soil rich in humus, yet well-drained is required, since it is truly remarkable the length the new growths will make in the four or five months before they flower. A mulch of rotted compost during the summer will help to prevent the soil from baking and the water from running away on the surface.

Buddleias are easy to grow, but they like plenty of sun-shine. Leggy plants and small flower heads result when the drastic spring pruning is omitted. Although the Summer-Lilac will grow to ten feet or more, low pruning while the plants are young will keep them nearer the five to six foot mark.

COUNTRY GOOD soups

They taste country fresh, country rich...the secret is the seasoning

A pinch of herbs, a dash of imported spice...just the right amount of seasoning gives new Country Good Soups their wonderful flavour. The kind of old-fashioned soup flavour you probably haven't tasted for years.

And you can serve all this country goodness, this old-fashioned flavour in just minutes, from the package to the table. But don't confuse new Country Good Soups with ordinary soups. These are the soups that are seasoned to give you old-fashioned flavour. These are Country Good Soups.

20 YEARS

At the time of his retirement last year, he had been connected with the government travel bureau for nearly 20 years, 10 of them as its director.

When he fell ill last year, Mr. Evans took a holiday in Hawaii on his doctor's orders.

It was paid for through a Canada-wide testimonial fund raised by friends in the tourist industry.

Surviving are the widow,

Lillian, at home at 1177 Roslyn; three sons, Ernest of Toronto, James of Prince George, and Peter of Edmonton; a sister, Madge Evans, of Toronto; a brother, John, of Vancouver, and five grandchildren.

Also surviving is the mother, Emily Evans, of Victoria.

Funeral services are to be followed by cremation.

Man Jailed For Refusing To Fight Fires

(Compiled from CP)

WILLIAMS LAKE—A man who refused to fight a forest fire here will spend the next 30 days in prison.

Bona Langlois, 29, was fined $50, but refused to pay the fine.

Langlois told the court he volunteered for firefighting three days earlier, but was told he was not needed.

He said he found another job later and refused to give it up when a forest ranger and police conscripted men. The case is believed the first this year of a man refusing to fight forest fires.

A forest protection officer said men were urgently needed to fight blazes at nearby Alexis Creek and in the Horsefly area.

The only persons excused from conscription under the Forestry Act are doctors, some railwaymen and cripples.

First Suit Launched

VANCOUVER—The first suit against the B.C. Electric Company since it was expropriated by the provincial government was launched in Supreme Court here Tuesday. Lawyer E. B. Ruryk issued a writ for Lillian Farlow, a widow claiming damages for injuries suffered while a passenger in a BCE bus in downtown Vancouver. The writ carries the endorsement of Deputy Attorney-General G. D. Kennedy.

When he fell ill last year, Mr. Evans took a holiday in Hawaii on his doctor's orders.

It was paid for through a Canada-wide testimonial fund raised by friends in the tourist industry.

Surviving are the widow, Lillian, at home at 1177 Roslyn; three sons, Ernest of Toronto, James of Prince George, and Peter of Edmonton; a sister, Madge Evans, of Toronto; a brother, John, of Vancouver, and five grandchildren.

Also surviving is the mother, Emily Evans, of Victoria.

Funeral services are to be followed by cremation.

Seamen Get Hike

VANCOUVER—Crews operating ships for four companies will receive a $23.50 monthly pay increase over 30 months under terms of new contract with the Seafarers International Union.

Northland Navigation Company Ltd., Pacific Tankers Ltd., Alaska Cruise Lines and Shell Canadian tankers have signed agreements based on a long-term contract reached in negotiations between Northland and the SIU.

The Northland settlement involves about 250 deckhands, stewards, stewardesses, cooks, oilers, firemen and other classifications on 11 ships.

200-Mile River Trip

KAMLOOPS—Forty American adventurers will set out Thursday on a 200-mile canoe, kayak and rubber raft trip down two B.C. rivers.

The group, members of the Sierra Club of Berkeley, Calif., will travel by CNR from Kamloops 170 miles north to Valemont.

From Valemont they will paddle 100 miles down the fast-flowing Canoe River to Boat Encampment.

This week-long expedition will be followed by another 100-mile jaunt down the Columbia River to Revelstoke.

Want Judge to Act

VANCOUVER—The city of Vancouver wants a Supreme Court judge to sit as arbitrator in land expropriation proceedings.

Russell Baker, counsel for the city, told a royal commission on expropriation Tuesday negotiations break down, cases could be taken to a Supreme Court judge for impartial decision.

The current practice of forming a tribunal when cases need arbitration is expensive, he said. A judge, who is paid by the government, would be less expensive.

New Wing For Hospital Approved

An expenditure of $34,000 for renovations to Royal Oak Private Hospital, and an addition of a new 12-bed wing, was approved Tuesday by Saanich finance committee.

The hospital is leased by Saanich to private operators on a rental basis.

The committee also decided to recommend to council that part of the rental revenue be set aside in a special fund to take care of future hospital needs.

Coun. Stanley Murphy said he foresees the need in a few years for further additions to the hospital. He suggested a separate fund.

The hospital has 30 beds which are all filled.

Under an agreement between the municipality and operators of the private hospital, preference is given to welfare cases from Saanich.

OUTDOOR REPORT

Reason Enough To Close Range That Weekend!

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Nell Cave's latest bulletin from the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association carries this little notice: "(Rifle) Range will be closed on the Labor Day weekend."

"How come?" It almost embarrassed Gary Williams to tell the truth because Gary had just finished pointing out, proudly, that the association's membership at last count was 742 "and was due for a big jump."

"To tell the truth," Mr. Williams started to say, "it's impossible to get anybody to run the range that day."

"That's the opening weekend of the bird season!"

It's obvious nobody needs to be embarrassed.

Any embarrassment might come on the Labor Day weekend. That's only about two weeks away, and that's not much time if you haven't started to prepare for the bird hunts.

It's Important to Check on Access

Grouse is your dish and you can hardly wait for the season to open. Remember the good spot from last year? That's fine, but . . .

Have you checked on access? What about your equipment and hunting licence? Have you read the latest game laws and hunting regulations? Have you checked into the possibility that your "favorite spot" might have been burned out?

Don't leave everything to the last minute. Plan on making each outing pleasant—and safe—one. Plan your trip carefully. As the Game Association bulletin points out, check even the minute details such as transportation.

Fifteen miles from the main highway is no place to become a "do it yourself" mechanic.

You can't, of course, check on the weather.

That's the one item that may put a crimp into every nimrod's plans. Unless the first hazard improves greatly within the next two weeks, nobody will go hunting.

It will take about an inch of rain before forestry officials will even consider opening the lands to hunters. An inch, you say, isn't much? It isn't . . . If you have never taken the time to stop and figure it out,

Tuesday's late afternoon rain deposited less than a quarter of an inch of water on the district.

It was most welcome, but still was not enough.

DRIFTING WITH THE TIDE: Salt water anglers looking forward to forthcoming derbies are also running short of time . . . Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association Ladder Derby fishoff takes place Sunday . . . Deadline for ladder qualifiers to pick up their tickets ended last weekend . . . Only 120 of the 200 qualifiers picked up their tickets . . . They are now being passed out on a "first-come, first-served" basis . . . Get 'em from Stan Williams . . . This Saturday is also the last qualifying week for Cowichan Bay's Ladder Derby, scheduled to be fished off Aug. 27 (see story below).

Pedder Bay produced several fine catches on Sunday . . .

But for all the activity, only one boat went out Monday morning . . . W. Gorzynski had the bay to himself and wound up with three springs weighing 27, 24 and 23 pounds . . . Good run of big fellows in Saanich Inlet with Bill Hewton (35 pounds), Al MacDonald (34.03) and Tony Rosin (30.13) all weighing in big ones at Hall's . . . Even the golfers are landing 'em . . . Colwood pro Bill Court checked in with a 29 1/2-pounder and Dr. George Bigelow shows up on the Cowichan ladder with a 21-pounder.

Rungs All Taken

It might take more than a 15-pound salmon to qualify for the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club ladder derby fishoff Aug. 27.

All 50 rungs had been claimed today and the smallest fish on the ladder was E. Jaggers' 13-pound 12-ounce spring—no mean catch.

Qualifying deadline is 9 p.m. Saturday.

Last week's prize winner was Mrs. J. K. Aylwin of Victoria, who took over the lead with a 35-pound eight-ounce spring. Art Burnett of Cowichan claimed second prize with a 31-pound, six-ounce lunker; George Nosky of Ladysmith won the hidden weight prize.

Rung holders:

1. Mr. K. K. Aylwin, Victoria, 33.08.

2. Art Burnett, Cowichan Bay, 21.06.

3. Mrs. J. K. Aylwin, Duncan, 17.96.

4. Earl Reynolds, Mayne Bay, 17.00.

5. T. Carmichael, Cowichan Bay, 18.08.

6. Mrs. G. Gaudet, Ladysmith, 16.00.

7. Bert Burrows, Victoria, 15.15.

8. H. McAllister, Ladysmith, 14.97.

9. Mrs. T. W. Spencer, Victoria, 14.02.

10. Bob Kennedy, Victoria, 14.01.

11. Bert Reid, Duncan, 13.34.

12. E. Jaggers, Duncan, 13.12.

Gayle Moves To Round Two In U.S. Meet

SEATTLE (AP)—Gayle Hitchens of North Vancouver, Canadian junior golf champion, was to meet Margaret Martin of St. Clairsville, Ohio, today as the U.S. national girls' junior golf tournament goes into the second round.

Miss Hitchens was taken to the last hole Tuesday by Gayle Blochhus of Seattle because she managed a one-up victory.

In other feature rounds today, co-medallists Ann Baker of Maryville, Tenn., and Mary Lou Daniel of Louisville, Ky., meet Mary Knutzen of Renton, Ore., and Roberta Albers of Tampa, Fla.

The co-medallists were carried to the final holes in Tuesday's play, but each survived with two-up decisions.

ABOUT TENNIS, PAINTINGS AND BIKE

'Lepers' Window' Only a Memory in Leiden Churchyard

Victoria's Susan Butt, top-ranked women's singles player in Canada, is currently on a tennis tour in Europe. While there, Miss Butt is writing a series of articles for The Daily Times. Here, she writes from Leiden, Holland.

By SUSAN BUTT

LEIDEN, Holland — The heart of Holland really consists of dykes, windmills and wooden shoes.

During my two-week stay in the Netherlands I found, to my delight, that the trademarks of the country are not just publicity stunts but integral parts of Dutch life.

Butt

Hilversum, a residential town on the outskirts of Amsterdam, and Leiden, a university centre not far from The Hague, were the places in which I played tennis in Holland.

But it is such a small nation — about 125 miles wide and 200 miles long — that I also saw much of the country-side.

Southern landscapes are mostly flat dairy fields and tiny villages dominated by enormous old churches. Chief fixtures of the north are windmills which range in size from that of a dog house to a huge barn.

"Up" by the water the villagers are selling smoked eel, painting are hung.

Dutch people are much like Americans in temperament in that they are very friendly and hospitable . . . and most of their children are spoiled.

Everyone has a bicycle in Holland. Even I used one.

The country is flat. Distances are short. Parking spaces are rare—hence the family car is easier left home.

Holland has one of the greatest densities of population in the world. Land is at a premium.

To alleviate the land shortage, work began back in 1927 to drain great sections of the IJsselmeer, a fresh water inland sea which covers a large section of the country.

Dykes are built segregating an expanse of water which is slowly pumped out over the years. The Oostelijke Flevoland is one section recently completed which will supply thousands more acres of farm land.

I drove out along the miles of dykes one day with my Hilversum hosts. On one side of the dyke is the sea and on the other, lower than the sea, stretch reeded acres into the distance. This is a paradise for bird watchers.

Leyland, the youngest city of Holland, stands on the artificial dunes at the tip of this great new section of land.

A memorable sight in Holland was the small fishing village of Spakenburg where men, women and children still work and play in their native costumes.

Men's dress is still the baggy trousers and loose shirts while women wear dainty lace head-pieces, floor-length skirts and lavishly designed shoulder-halter which indicate their marital status.

Wooden shoes are neatly lined outside the door of every modest home.

"Up" by the water the village where famous Dutch rembrandt, Van Dyke and Veneer can all be seen here.

Customers eat them on the spot before a background of flapping fishing boat sails. Some of the boats are a century old.

Predictions are that this antiquated way of life and dress will become extinct in the next 50 years as tourism exploits it and industry alters the economy.

All the tennis players were taken on a boat trip through the canals and harbor of Amsterdam.

We saw the homes of merchants, which were built when Holland was the most prosperous nation in the world, lining the waterways.

And we saw the towering liners majestically entering the harbor.

Shopping in Amsterdam is a treat and textiles are especially cheap. Visitors here are spoilt as most of the Dutch speak passable English.

A "must" in Amsterdam is an afternoon at the Rijk-

John Robinson, who organized the voyage of the Pilgrim fathers to America on board the "Mayflower" in 1620, was pastor of this church and here remains his tomb.

Guildboards from the 15th century hang in the church.

The blacksmiths, carpenters and tailors are all represented.

Most pathetic memory held by the church comes with seeing two iron-barred windows which lead to a small court outside the church.

This is "Lepers' Window" and in the middle ages lepers were allowed to stand at the window to hear the services of the foremost in Holland.

He introduced me to his patients, many of whom had complex diseases but still had hope.

What a difference today than when the lepers huddled at the iron-barred window around the corner at the old church and strained to hear the service.

HE GIVES AWAY
GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prints? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions, he selects to answer, will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a "Harmless Alias or Glint."

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Pat Harmon, age 12, of Shreveport, La., for her question:

Why do they say a cat has nine lives?

The cat was perhaps the first wild animal to lose her fear of the human family. This was thousands of years ago in ancient Egypt and her first human friends knew her true value. They named her Mau, which is what she calls herself, and treated her as a respected member of the family. Pretty, playful Mau was well loved and her furry heart was filled with love in return, especially for the children. She ate the mice which nibbled at the food supplies and destroyed the rats which carried the dread bubonic plague through the cities.

But since the cat was the first of our cuddly pets, she had a stern duty to perform. She taught, she still teaches, her human friends how to treat their small animals.

When they ruffled her neat fur or twerked her fluffy tail, she used her claws and teeth to discipline them and teach them proper manners. Some people resent this caty discipline. They fear the claws without bothering to discover that most cats would far rather cuddle than scratch. Others dislike her independent character, her firm refusal to take orders.

For these reasons, many people have a strong dislike for cats. When it comes to dogs and budgies, hamsters and guinea pigs, most people do not feel very strongly either way. But when it comes to cats, almost everyone has a very definite opinion. They love cats very much or hate them very much.

Some of the human hostility towards cats dates back to the Middle Ages. This was a grim period of human history when honest curiosity was out of fashion. People tended to fear what they did not understand.

And, goodness' knows, even her friends must admit that Miss Puss is a very mysterious animal. Her senses of smell and hearing are keener than ours. She can see better in a dim light. She is very quick and agile and when she falls she turns in mid air to land on her paddy paws. For her small size she is very strong.

Cats and 'Catty' Sayings

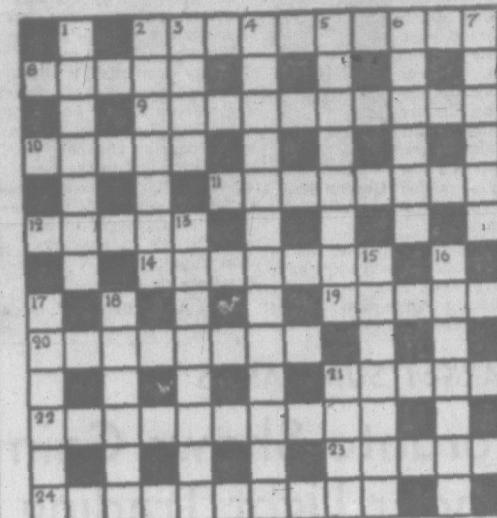

In the Middle Ages, the cat haters used these mysterious qualities to stir up fear of cats. And fear leads naturally to anger and often cruelty. Cats were brutally treated and killed without mercy. As a result, mice and rats multiplied and the bubonic plague swept across Europe. It was during this period of persecution that cats were associated with wicked witches and many of our "catty" sayings and superstitions originated.

Later, people regained a more sensible attitude. But there have always been cat haters to hand down the old sayings. When you hear that a cat has nine lives, you remember how clever she is at falling on her feet and getting out of tight corners. Perhaps you are half tempted to believe that the furry darling can risk one of her nine lives. Thoughtless people may use this cruel notion as an excuse to neglect their cats.

Naturally, Miss Puss has only one life to lose. In spite of her strength and clever ability, she is but a small animal in a world full of dangers. She can be killed by a dog or a passing car. She

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Lovely Tina Louise's attractive mother, Mrs. Betty Myers, is after David Susskind's scalp for calling Tina a "birdbrain" on TV. Tina, claims her mother, works steadily as an actress in Hollywood and Europe, speaks Italian, and "is a girl of letters—a super-girl in the mental department." Furthermore, says Mrs. Myers, Tina "interviewed Elvis Presley in a more satisfactory way than Susan skid interviewed Khrushchev."

Jayne Mansfield, after all that publicity about darkening her hair, resumed being a bleached blonde... Glamour Photo Murray Korman died broke and Phil Greenwald paid the funeral expenses on behalf of the Concord Hotel for whom Korman often worked... We asked Joyce Mathews our semi-annual question, "When are you and Billy Rose getting married?"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Billy Reed, the ex-hoover whose Little Club is a big success (even in summer) may open a bigger spot—with dancing. The Syd Chaplins, Milton Berle, Adolph Greens, Harry Kurnitz and Martin Gabel were there the other a.m.—concertizing... New Show Biz: Henry Youngman was applauded in Lindy's when notices came out on his dramatic TV debut on "U.S. Steel"... Old-time barbershop, Spinrad's famous in the Runyon era, reopened as EARL'S PEARLS: The way for a little boy to get a puppy from his mother is not to ask for a puppy but to ask for her a little brother or little sister.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A man bid very high for a parrot at an auction; finally it was knocked down to him at a high figure. "Does this parrot talk?" he asked. "Who do you think was bidding against you?" asked the parrot.—Dublin Opinion.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The chap who keeps reminding you that you can't take it with you is planning to take it with him.

Then there was this fellow, says Jack Herbert, who thought the top row of his typewriter was for sugar words... That's earl, brother.

ANTI-SMOKE BRIEF PLANNED

A citizens' brief seeking a speed-up in enforcement of new anti-smoke regulations will be submitted to city public works committee next week.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, committee chairman who piloted the new regulations through city council, said a group of Gorge Road residents had made bitter complaints about fly ash in recent evenings.

"They are going to make a submission to the committee," he said. "But I must point out in fairness that I have had several phone calls from people who say there already has been an improvement since the bylaw was passed."

Passage of the tougher bylaw was followed by warnings from City Hall officials that it would take months before industrial plants could survey their needs and install required smoke-cutting equipment.

MUTE TESTIMONY to the shattering violence of a fall from the Gorge Bridge Tuesday is this wrecked car. Two women escaped death in the crash. Passersby pulled the women from the water after one had been trapped in the broken windshield but had managed to free herself.

MONTE ROBERTS

Would you care (as friend Perry might say) to dream along with me?

This bit of dreaming started with a telephone call from a recently acquired constituent, a newcomer to this, The Fairest City of Them All.

The constituent called to ask my advice about a plan she and her husband have in mind, namely, to go around the world by tramp steamer.

(You starting to dream along with me?)

She explained that what she and her husband have the most of is time.

"We don't wish to go from here to there, or even back again, in a matter of days, or weeks, or months, or years."

"We'd just like to get aboard a freighter and go wherever the freighter goes."

I told her that freighters go where their owners, or charterers tell them to go, without regard to the comfort or interest of whatever passengers might be permitted aboard.

"This is what we wish," the constituent replied, "we don't care where we go, or how long it takes us to get there."

"We have," she reiterated, "nothing but time."

I tried to explain that a freighter leaving here with a load of lumber headed for South Africa might proceed from that destination to Australia and then come right back here.

"Wonderful," she said.

But how, I asked, is this going to take you around the world?

"You don't seem to understand," she said. "I told you we have nothing but time."

So now I'm dreaming along with this constituent, who feels she has plenty of time to go around the world via the slowest and most erratic tramp steamer.

And you're dreaming along with me, too, aren't you?

Dreaming you'll have all the time in the world to go around the world while there's still a world to go around.

SEPTEMBER ARRIVAL FOR 'SCOPE

A new $140,000 telescope for the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Little Saanich Mountain will arrive here from England about mid-September.

It is a 48-inch telescope, about 20 feet long, and has been specially manufactured for the observatory by Grubb-Pearson Ltd. at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

One of its new features is a stationary spectrograph, unlike the revolving spectrograph attached to the observatory's 72-inch telescope, which moves with it.

"This will be of great value to our future researches," an official said.

The telescope will be shipped direct from Newcastle to Victoria via the Panama Canal and the observatory is now awaiting word of its departure.

On arrival the telescope will be transported by truck from Ogden Point to the observatory. A new dome has been built to accommodate it.

B.C. Forests Still Closed Despite Rain

Forest closure remains in full effect despite a 22-inch rainfall on the lower tip of Vancouver Island late Tuesday.

The storm, heralded and accompanied by a spectacular thunder and lightning display, brought exactly the same rainfall to Victoria as fell the same day last year.

Today's cooler weather will clear slowly and revert to sunny skies by Thursday.

The nearly quarter-inch rainfall on Saanich Peninsula was "far too little to make any difference to the fire hazard," a forestry department spokesman said.

But a general increase in humidity through the province is enabling firefighters to re-trench their lines on the 276 blazes still burning.

NEED MORE RAIN

Locally, outside fire permits are still suspended.

"We would like more rain," a Saanich firefighter said. "We can't lift the burning restrictions until the woods open."

At least an inch of rain is needed before the forests are reopened.

The weather system that brought the thunderstorm to Victoria—only the 37th in 62 years—is slowly moving away before a wind today.

Winds will be lighter tonight and Thursday with temperatures ranging from 52 to 75 degrees.

The forestry department said there were 11 new fires in the Vancouver forest district today, making a total 48 burning and fought by 532 men.

In the Langford district there was only one on Metchosin Road, knocked down by firefighters using a water tanker.

There was one new fire at Duncan, another at Alberni, both put down, and a resurgence of an old blaze at Alberni was being contained by 29 firefighters.

Thunderstorms also hit the interior, helping bring the total number of fires in Kamloops district to 105, but rain was falling today throughout the Okanagan Valley.

At Prince George, 86 fires are burning and at Prince Rupert—the hot-spot—there are 47.

Q. Who were the Aztecs? — A.H.J.

A. The Aztecs were a powerful nation of Indians who inhabited the Valley of Mexico from about AD 1200 until the conquest by Spain in 1521. Their capital city was Tenochtitlan, now Mexico City, which had an estimated population of 100,000 when the Spaniards arrived.

A very warlike people, they carried their habitual savagery over into their religion, fighting wars not only for territorial and monetary gain, but also to secure prisoners for human sacrifice.

Miracle Saves Women In Plunge From Bridge

Expert Swimmers Carry Out Rescue

By MICHAEL ROSE

Two Greater Victoria women are in satisfactory condition in hospital today after a miraculous escape from death Tuesday.

They were saved from the waters of the Gorge at 5:20 p.m. after their car collided with another vehicle on Gorge bridge, crashed through the guard rail, plummeted 40 feet to the inlet's bank and landed into the water.

Mrs. Christine Daunhauer, 29, of 1625 Mountain View, driver of the car, is suffering from bruises and severe shock in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mrs. Erna Simon, 44, of 3670 Cedar Hill, a passenger, also is suffering from shock.

Although they survived the shattering fall, the women would have perished but for the swift action of four young men at the scene within seconds of the accident.

All four are experienced in water safety and one, Bob Lacey, 3219 Wascana, is a member of the Bohemian Skin Divers' Club.

The others were Jack Childs, 1260 Burnside; Jim Lockhart, 1290 Hastings, and Chuck Connors, 3411 Wascana.

Also on hand was LS Harold R. Roberts, 140 Durrance, a trained skin diver and former ship's diver in HMCS Assiniboine.

The matter was raised by Coun. Robert Chard who said the municipality might have trouble collecting about $60,000 in taxes from the BCE since Crown corporations are exempt from taxation by government.

According to the Municipal Act, comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said, the owner of a property at the time of preparation of the assessment roll in November was liable for taxes the following year.

Deadline for paying the taxes without penalty or interest is Friday. The committee decided to wait until that day before taking further action.

Tax Issue Reviewed By BCE

A.B.C. Electric Co. spokesman said today that municipal tax payments issues, such as the one raised at a meeting of Saanich council finance committee Tuesday night, are to be reviewed by the new board of directors of the recently nationalized corporation.

The spokesman said there were "several similar situations which must be considered by the directors."

Ontario Blasted On Power

A surprise attack on the Ontario Conservative government was made by Conservative MP Harry McQuillan (Comox-Alberni) in a speech at Courtenay Tuesday.

He blamed Ontario for "influencing" the federal Conservative government to take a stand against the export of B.C. power.

"Ontario should keep it's nose out of B.C.'s power picture," said Mr. McQuillan, who is chairman of the parliamentary committee on mines, forests and waters.

In a speech at Courtenay Rotary Club, he said B.C. has plenty of power potential for export and there are other B.C. members of parliament who would agree with him.

"But this shouldn't be a political matter. It should be referred to the National Energy Board for decision."

MANY YEARS

A. deB. McPhillips, MP for Victoria, made this comment on Mr. McQuillan's speech today:

"My view is that it will be a good many years before there is a sufficient potential for the export of power.

"When that time comes, an application could be made to the National Energy Board, and the decision would be made in the light of circumstances then existing."

Mr. McQuillan said if the matter were referred to the National Energy Board it would "overcome Ontario influence and bring approval of power export."

He said he agreed with Premier Bennett's taking over the B.C. Electric and Peace River Power Corporation.

"With so much potential available, provincial ownership of power is the best answer for sound development."

Mr. McQuillan said it is the duty of provincial power authorities to see that the people get the lowest possible power rate, regardless of how or where it is obtained.

"There is no question at all but that provincial authorities originally subscribed to the agreement with the United States on the Columbia, and they should now stand by it."

RELOCATION PROTESTED BY NEIGHBORS

Cadboro Bay Rows Over House

A group of Cadboro Bay residents are lambasting Saanich council for allowing the relocation of a two-storey Sinclair Road house on Penrhyn.

The house was moved Monday following a recent council decision approving relocation.

Mrs. D. E. Bolin, 2595 Penrhyn Street, a spokesman for the group, said the house is "a great deal higher" than adjacent houses and is not in keeping with the rest of the neighborhood.

"It's an eyesore and is contrary to good planning and zoning," she said.

She claimed council by-passed a bylaw by allowing the house on the site.

The house, she said, is a foot too wide to occupy a 30-foot lot.

Building inspector Jack Taylor admitted the width of the house did not conform to the bylaw by one foot, but he added council and the building board of appeal had no other alternative but to approve relocation.

If council rejected the application on grounds the house was too wide, the owner could have turned it the other way.

Cut the Midnight Capers By Light of Garden Torch

By PENNY SAVER

Gladiatorial combat in a torchlit Colosseum... shades of Augustus Caesar! It was a moonless black evening. Penny could hear the regular swish of a badminton racket in the neighboring garden. A sturdy yellow torch flamed and flickered in the gentle wind. Figures darted here and there, their silhouettes lighting to golden as they neared the halo of flame. The game went on.

I clambered over the back fence, pencil in hand, to take notes on what promised to be a good item for this column—practical, wind-proof, and ever so romantic torch.

It turned out, however, that my neighbor had won it at a bingo game. But by coincidence, first stop at a hardware store this morning proved lucky. Store is selling the same torches, fitted to slim six-foot black metal poles, at $6.99 each.

Gold, orange or black cylinders at top contain kerosene and a wide wick. A metal cap attached to small chain can be placed over the wick for storage. The torch can be stabbed into the grass, to shed a warm glow over barbecue table or badminton court.

Another sure-fire outdoor torch is a small table model, about six inches high, selling for $1.99. Bronzed aluminum base is fireproof. Flame will light up the outdoor supper table, and aid in repelling insects as well.

Best way of storing potatoes and other vegetables bought in bulk is a heavy plastic scoop tray, about eight inches deep. Bin is 17 inches long, and slopes down for easy cleaning. One bin is priced at $2.49, and, should you buy two or more, bins will fit neatly together in a vertical position.

If you would like to know where Penny did her shopping, EV 2-3131 is the number to call.

Membership Grows, Work Increases

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—While the Canadian Federation of University Women now has more than 10,000 members, it is not growing as fast as the enrollment of women in the country's universities. Federation President Mrs. A. S. Morton of Saskatoon said Tuesday night.

This was understandable in view of the number of professional organizations claiming the participation of university graduates, Mrs. Morton said in an interview.

During business sessions Tuesday at the triennial conference vice-presidents and provincial directors reported on the growth and local activities of university women's clubs.

Discussion groups were held on education, international relations, libraries and creative arts and status of women.

Persistence Gets Results

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A campaign by the Canadian Federation of University Women for the acceptance of women as members of government bodies is beginning to show results, the federation president said Monday.

Mrs. A. S. Morton of Saskatoon told delegates to the 15th triennial conference that the federation has made "persistent reminders to the government that women can be very useful members on many of the boards and consultative and governing bodies."

She reminded the 400 delegates convening at the University of Western Ontario that a woman has been appointed to the National Parole Board, and another was a member of the Canadian delegation sent to the Commonwealth conference on education at Oxford in 1959.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PLUM NUTTY

Four cups prepared plums (about 2 quarts ripe plums), $\frac{1}{2}$ cup orange juice, 1½ teaspoons grated orange rind (optional), $\frac{1}{2}$ cup finely chopped walnuts, 6 cups (3 lbs. 6 ozs.) sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

First, prepare the fruit. Pit (do not peel) about 2 quarts fully-ripe plums. Cut in pieces and chop. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Add orange juice, orange rind and nuts; mix well.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch hot paraffin. Yield: About 10 medium glasses (5 pounds jam).

DEAR ABBY

But Who Ends Up Paying the Piper?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You hear unwed mothers forced to grow up in a community where everyone knew the circumstances of your birth? When a young girl makes one mistake, and is forced to "face the music," the child suffers more than the mother profits.

Why not make the girl who has sinned stay home and face the music? I am sure it would teach her a lesson. At least if she had to stay home and take care of her baby she wouldn't have so much time on her hands that she would go out and do the same thing over again.

DEAR ABBY: What is a person supposed to do when she is asked to sit through a private fashion show? I have a friend who can afford vacations and beautiful clothes, but I can't. She will invite me to her house and ask me to sit down while she models all the beautiful new outfits she has bought for her vacation. I try hard to conceal my envy, but when I go home I break out in tears; I really like this person, and feel very guilty about not enjoying her good luck as much as I pretend. How can I overcome this feeling?

Crowther, Susan Exton, Phyllis Nicolson, Kay Nicolson and Dorothy Nicolson.

"This is fresh lemonade weather!"

There's nothing more thirst-quenching than ice-cold lemonade in a glass as tall as the temperature. Made with fresh Sunkist Lemons, of course. No other summer-time drink has quite the same delicious, tart-sweet tang. Fresh lemonade costs only about half as much as canned or bottled drinks, tastes ten times as good—and is a hundred times better for you!

Add a little lemon, add a lot to life

New CPA Flights Will Aid B.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian Pacific Airlines Tuesday won its long battle to fly into London, England, from western Canada.

Transport Minister Balcer announced that the privately-owned airline is being designated by Canada as a flag carrier on the Vancouver-London route with a technical stop at Gander.

The new route authorization will permit CPA to pick up passengers at Calgary and Edmonton and fly them on to the British capital.

CPA is also getting Calgary as a stop on its trans-polar flight from Vancouver to Amsterdam—a northern route it pioneered in 1955 via Edmonton.

Grant McConachie, president of the Vancouver-based CPA, said in a statement that at this time that by its decision the federal government has demonstrated that it is anxious to encourage Canada's air transport industry to compete effectively with foreign carriers to contribute to the country's economic welfare.

thirty-one percent of Canada's total agricultural production is exported, and 69 percent is sold in the Canadian market.

Arbitration Board Asked To Set BCE Share Value

Value of the newly-nationalized R.C. Electric should be determined by an independent arbitration board, says Liberal MLA Alan Macfarlane in a letter to Premier Bennett.

He said CPA will start a twice-a-week service to London from Vancouver over the Pole Oct. 4.

He said there will be considerable economic benefit to Vancouver.

CPA would be able "to compete more effectively with long-haul carriers between the South Pacific and Europe as well as between the Pacific Northwest and Europe."

"CPA employs more than 2,000 persons in Vancouver and in addition supports numerous suppliers and contractors."

Trans-Canada Air Lines, publicly-owned rival of CPA, estimated the TCA will lose between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 in annual revenues to CPA on the London services.

CPA estimated the diversion of revenues from TCA at $1,100,000 over a full year of operation—a financial impact the airline placed at "less than one-half of 1 per cent of TCA's gross system revenues."

HTS FOREIGN LINES

But, CPA added, the new route will divert four times as much from foreign carriers operating from the west into London—chiefly Pan-American Airways on its Seattle-to-London flight over the North Pole, and Qantas Airlines on its Australia-to-London run via San Francisco and New York.

Still up in the air are two other route bids by CPA—one for more domestic transcontinental services in competition with TCA and another for a trans-Atlantic run to London from Toronto and Montreal, restricted to prop-driven aircraft.

A reliable informant said the cross-Canada route—which CPA has on an once-a-day basis now—will likely be reviewed soon by the Air Transport Board, probably private on the basis of the economics involved rather than through public hearings.

The prop service to London has been left in abeyance for a future decision.

Under the present bilateral air agreement between Canada and Britain, this country is free to name one or more carriers on the U.K. run. Up to now, TCA was the sole Canadian carrier, with rights to Prestwick, Manchester and London, while British Overseas Airways Corporation had the franchise as U.K. carrier to Montreal and Toronto.

TCA and BOAC have a pool arrangement on their trans-Atlantic services whereby they split their revenues equally between one another.

'UNWILLING' WHITES INVITED TO GO HOME

BLANTYRE (Reuters)—Dr. Hastings Banda, leader of the victorious Malawi Congress party in Tuesday's general elections in Nyasaland, said today that whites who are unwilling to accept the right of Negroes to govern themselves "should pack up and go home." (See story, Page 3.)

GLAD TO BE ALIVE after a thunderbolt struck only a few feet over their heads Tuesday night, Mrs. Jack Marson and daughters Maureen, 15, and Jacque, 11 (on ladder), look over damaged roof on Cedar Hill Cross Road home. Mr. Marson and son Ted, nine, also were home when lightning struck. (Times Photo by Bill Halcott.)

Telephones, Power Hit By Spectacular Storm

The worst of four lightning bolts that crashed to earth in Saanich Tuesday afternoon damaged a Cedar Hill house and knocked out power and telephones in the area.

The spectacular storm came in a general rain and wind storm that whipped Greater Victoria and dumped badly-needed 22 of an inch of moisture on parched woods and fields.

An explosive flash dazzled Jack Marson, his wife and three children of 3971 Cedar Hill Cross Road, just as they were about to celebrate the father's birthday in their kitchen dining nook shortly after 5 p.m.

"It sounded like a great big cannon," said 13-year-old Jacque Marson, who got a second fright a little later when a light fixture blew up as she switched it on.

"A big flash came with it—

right in our faces," Mrs. Marson added.

"But it could have been a lot worse. We're all okay," she said.

A corner of the eaves on the adjoining dining room, just outside the kitchen windows, was blasted open as if a giant sledge had been swung at it, spilling woodwork and insulation to the ground.

There was no fire, although the house was filled with smoke from the sizzling lightning bolt and burned wiring.

TRROUBLE PRONE

The neighborhood seems prone to trouble; when the Marsons were building their home 12 years ago, a tree at the back of the property was struck by lightning, and "the last time we went away the house across the street burned down," Mrs. Marson said.

The family had returned on Monday from a week's cruising in their 30-foot boat.

Mr. Marson was just slipping a knife into his birthday cake—"I'd already made a wish that we could have stayed another week on the boat . . . and all hell broke loose."

AERIAL HIT

The lightning struck the top of a 30-foot television antenna, shattering parts of it and travelling down guy and lead-in wires into the house.

A ground wire over the north end of the long ranch-type dwelling disappeared entirely, leaving scorches and gouges down the side shading.

Two TV sets were knocked out along with a stereo record player, a deep freeze and the telephone.

In the dining room, two plaster walls and a valance box were burst by the blast.

FUSES BLOWN

In the basement, three fuses and a carbon lightning arrester for the telephone were burned out and a light fixture shattered.

The whole area is still without telephone service.

After the first lightning strike 12 years ago, Mrs. Marson said: "I was always afraid of the big oak tree at the back, and when we were sitting there last night I was just going to say 'I hope it doesn't hit the oak,' when it happened."

Damage to the house and contents is covered by insurance.

SAIL STRIKE

Firemen were called to the house by an indirect route after the phones were knocked out. Mrs. Jennie Harlan, 1269 Garkil, saw the bolt strike, jumped into her car and drove to a corner store, but found no phone also out.

She hailed a passing taxi driven by David Geddes, 1068 Tolmie, who radioed the alarm to his dispatcher, who in turn called Saanich firemen.

Power was off from 5:25 to 6:55 p.m.

OIL STOVE

At the second strike by lightning, wiring was burned out on an oil stove connection at the home of Mrs. A. S. Fleming, 5118 Patricia Bay Highway, who was at home with her daughters Joan, seven, Elizabeth, three, and a playmate.

There was no damage to the rest of the house.

TOUGH AUSSIE DOCKERS MAN-HANDLE PREMIER

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Union demonstrators invaded the Australian Parliament building shouting and booing today and one tried to grab Prime Minister Robert Menzies.

Police were called in after a man, shouting "Bob, Bob, grabbed Menzies' arm and tried to swing him around. An attendant intervened and pushed the man back.

Police later formed a chain to hold back demonstrators.

Arthur Calwell, the federal opposition leader, was drawn out by cries of "drop dead" and counter-cries of "let him speak," when he addressed the crowd.

The demonstrators included dockyard workers from Melbourne and Sydney, who were protesting against unemployment and the government's decision to place orders abroad for destroyers.

Brandt Appeals to Kennedy For 'Action, Not Words'

NIKITA WARNS

Close Down U.S. Bases, Japan Told

TOKYO (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today called on Japan to close down all American bases on its soil.

He made the appeal in a message handed over to Japanese Premier Hayato Ikeda by Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

Khrushchev coupled his call with a suggestion that Soviet-Japanese trade could be tripled or quadrupled in the next few years "if the two nations made unstinted endeavors."

"Japan's military alliance with the United States and the maintenance of foreign military bases in Japanese territory does not help in deepening mutual trust and normalizing relations between Japan and the Soviet Union," Khrushchev said.

He added that he hopes the time will come when all such foreign troops will be withdrawn and the military bases closed. Then, he said, friendly relations between Japan and Russia could be promoted.

ISSUES WARNING

At the same time as he handed over Khrushchev's message, Mikoyan warned Ikeda that Japan will not be safe in any war as long as she continued her security treaty with the United States.

Khrushchev said in his message that differences between Japan and the Soviet Union in political and social systems should not be an obstacle in the way of effective co-operation between the two countries.

But, the message said, "I would like to emphasize that the Soviet Union has been asserting and will continue to assert in the future that military blocs and military bases of one nation in another should be wiped out completely."

TO PUT CASE BEFORE UN

JFK Holds Back On Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—

President Kennedy is reported to have decided against any resumption of nuclear testing this year, regardless of whether the Russians demonstrate at Geneva they want no foot-in-the-door agreement.

The president's position, as outlined to congressional leaders, is that the United States should do nothing to prejudice the case it expects to make in the United Nations and the West is ready to accept a permanent ban while the Russians insist on an inspection veto.

Kennedy is sending his chief negotiator, Arthur Dean, back to Geneva next week to find out if the Russians still are sticking to their original position. If they are, he said Dean will come home quickly.

There is little hope within the administration that the Russians will change their position. Accordingly, the plan is to dramatize this last-chance rejection when the General Assembly meets in September.

The UN timetable usually keeps it in session until December.

NEEDS PREPARATION

There is the additional factor in this reported decision that it would take a couple of months to prepare a test shot if a presidential go-ahead is given.

Opinion within the administration is that the United States would lose little advantage by waiting a few more months before it moves into the field of perfecting types of smaller-scale nuclear weapons.

Republican congressional leaders view the matter differently.

Senate minority leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Charles Halleck of Indiana, minority leader in the House of Representatives, called for a protest vote.

The Soviet commandant in Berlin described the protest as "American interference in the internal affairs of East Germany" and said it was "completely out of place."

The Western commanders sent another stiff note to Halleck. Yesterday over the subsequent shutdown of West Berlin's borders by the Communists.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told reporters they have "quite authentic information" that the Russians have been testing all along.

BOYCOTT URGED

There were calls for an economic boycott of the Communists and free elections in East Germany.

The Communist troop carriers, accompanied by two trucks with high-pressure hoses, moved up to the Brandenburg Gate before the rally got under way.

AIM AT GENERAL

East German police pointed a water hose in the direction of Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commander of the United States Army in Europe, when he toured the Brandenburg Gate area with Brandt earlier in the day.

The hose was not turned on but rows of emergency police, believed to have been sent up to the border when news of Clarke's inspection spread, confronted the American general as he walked along the border.

The Communists had overnight ploughed escape routes into West Berlin with concrete walls and strung six-foot-high barbed-wire fences, giving the anti-refugee barrier an air of permanency.

Earlier, East German police told travellers on an early morning train from Leipzig in East Germany to Cologne in West Germany that the border had been closed to all East Germans since midnight.

Other reports reaching Bonn said all East Germans were ordered off two night trains at a checkpoint on a line to West Germany further south in Thuringia. East German passengers also were taken off a Swiss-bound train.

REJECT PROTEST

Russia meanwhile rejected a Western protest delivered Aug. 3 against East German measures against East Berliners working in the West.

The Soviet commandant in Berlin described the protest as "American interference in the internal affairs of East Germany" and said it was "completely out of place."

The Western commanders sent another stiff note to Halleck. Yesterday over the subsequent shutdown of West Berlin's borders by the Communists.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told reporters they have "quite authentic information" that the Russians have been testing all along.

Newest Satellite To Tab Radiation

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A new "windmill" scientific payload raced through the vastness of space today, gathering data on the relation between magnetic fields and radiation streaming from the sun.

Named Explorer XII, the package is expected to tell scientists more clearly than ever before how solar radiation influences conditions on earth and how great a hazard it is to manned space travel.

Because an extremely elliptical orbit was sought, it may be as long as 62 hours after launching before it can be definitely confirmed.

With four large paddle wheels extending from its body and a 32-inch rod protruding from the top, the payload resembles the spinning vanes of a windmill.

The paddlewheels were covered with solar cells to capture energy from the sun. Atop the rod was a sensitive magnetometer.

The space agency reported the payload instruments were to make the most intensive investigation yet attempted of the earth's magnetic fields and other fields in space and their interaction with solar winds.

Great clouds of ionized gases which burst from the sun and zip through space, distributing cosmic rays, electrons, protons and other energetic particles.

Explorers XII was aimed for a wide-swinging course designed to take it as far out as 54,000 miles from earth and bring it back to within 170 miles at the low point. Each pass around the world would take 31 hours, compared to normal satellite circuit of about two hours.

Yank Star At 48

NEW YORK—Slugging Roger Maris clouted home runs on his first two times at bat against Chicago White Sox this afternoon to boost his season's total to 48—just 12 shy of Babe Ruth's all-time record.

Yankees made sure of retaining their bulge at the head of the league by edging the Sox 5-4 on the strength of a single run scored in the last of the ninth.

Maris homered on the first pitch thrown him by lefty Bill Pierce of the Sox in the first inning and then clouted the third pitch in the third inning.

The two homers put the young right fielder 16 games ahead of the pace set by Babe Ruth when he set the record of 60 in 1927.

Both of Maris' blows came with Bobby Richardson on base. Mickey Mantle, who has 45 homers, was thrown out in the first inning and singled in the second.

Maris now has seven homers in the last six games.

West Avoids Provocation On Berlin

LONDON (AP)—The Western powers took a slower, more cautious approach to the Berlin problem today in the hope that this would keep the Communists from worsening the crisis. Diplomatic sources reported this new Western mood.

They also stressed in the firmest possible way that Britain, the United States and France are as determined as ever to protect the freedom of the 2,250,000 residents of West Berlin.

The British denied European reports that they were weakening Western resolve to resist Communist pressure tactics.

Meanwhile, Britain, the United States and France are drafting a protest to Moscow against the border closure.

Western diplomats said the protest, following up formal complaints made in Berlin Tuesday, will go to the Kremlin in future.

MILITARY USE CHARGED FOR 'NEEDLES'

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's big radio telescope at nearby Jodrell Bank, has expressed deep concern about possible military use of the United States' "needle" satellite project.

He also stressed in an interview Tuesday night that it is "quite clear" there is some "unspecified military reason" for the project and that he is "greatly disturbed" by this.

Explorers XII was aimed for a wide-swinging course designed to take it as far out as 54,000 miles from earth and bring it back to within 170 miles at the low point. Each pass around the world would take 31 hours, compared to a normal satellite circuit of about two hours.

Lovell said in an interview Tuesday night that it is "quite clear" there is some "unspecified military reason" for the project and that he is "greatly disturbed" by this.

"Needles" is a plan to eject 350,000,000 small pieces of wire from an American earth satellite. After 30 days these pieces of wire will encircle the earth at a height of about 500 to 1,000 miles.

Many astronomers and radio astronomers were violently opposed to the plan, Lovell said.

SAW STRIKE

Firemen were called to the house by an indirect route after the phones were knocked out. Mrs. Jennie Harlan, 1269 Garkil, who heard the bolt strike, jumped into her car and drove to a corner store, but found its phone also out.

She hailed a passing taxi driven by David Geddes, 1068 Tolmie, who radioed the alarm to his dispatcher, who in turn called Saanich firemen.

Power was off from 5:25 to 6:55 p.m.

OIL STOVE

At the second strike by lightning, wiring was burned out on an oil stove connection at the home of Mrs. A. S. Fleming, 5118 Patricia Bay Highway, who was at home with her daughters Joan, seven, Elizabeth three, and a playmate.

There was no damage to the rest of the house.

When lightning struck a tree playmate.

Plans Appeal At UN Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is reported to have decided against any resumption of nuclear testing this year, regardless of whether the Russians demonstrate at Geneva they want no fool-proof agreement.

The president's position, as outlined to congressional leaders, is that the United States should do nothing to prejudice the case it expects to make in the United Nations and the West is ready to accept a partial ban while the Russians insist on an inspection veto.

Kennedy is sending his chief negotiator, Arthur Dean, back to Geneva next week to find out if the Russians still are sticking to their original position. If they are, he said Dean will come home quickly.

There is little hope within the administration that the Russians will change their position. Accordingly, the plan is to dramatize this last-chance rejection when the General Assembly meets in September.

The UN timetable usually keeps it in session until December.

APPEALS TO KENNEDY

Brandt Wants More Action

BERLIN (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin announced today he has sent a letter to President Kennedy, telling him "Berlin expects more than words, it expects political action."

Brandt told a cheering rally of 20,000 West Berliners about the letter, declaring:

"Paper protests are not enough to express our screaming protest."

East German police moved seven troop carriers up to the Berlin border as the West Berliners massed in front of their city hall in the protest rally.

Brandt said he wants "high Western representations" to come to Berlin to see the situation for themselves, but did not name them.

To cheers and thunderous applause, Brandt declared by sealing off the border in divided Berlin, the Communists were using the old capital as a lever to split the Western Allies.

The rally was called by Brandt with the support of trade unions.

Banners carried by the demonstrators read "Enough protests, let's act"; "Kennedy to Berlin," and "Betrayal by the West."

Reports in diplomatic quarters here and in press dispatches from abroad indicated that an old Allied split might have developed over the new issue—with West Germany favoring the strongest possible retaliatory measures and Britain opposing any immediate action. However, such speculation lacked any official confirmation.

Grewe also disclosed that the Western Powers are drafting a new protest to the Soviet government against the closing of the border.

Strike Nearing End

MONTREAL (CP)—The end of a 37-day waterfront strike in Toronto and Hamilton appeared to be in sight today after a top-level meeting in Montreal between the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and the Shipping Federation of Canada.

Shumatcher Loses

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan Court of Appeal, in a judgment handed down today, has refused a motion by Regina lawyer Dr. M. C. Shumatcher that his commitment for trial on charges of counselling false declarations and counselling perjury be quashed on legal grounds.

Saanich Beach Costs IncreaseNATO Aid Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is ready to consider increasing its NATO military commitment if the Berlin crisis worsens. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker indicated today after a morning cabinet meeting Tuesday.

He said the municipality's share to date is $11,500. This was $1,500 more than provided in this year's budget for the joint operation of parks.

Council instructed Mr. Tribe to seek an explanation for increased costs from Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

Adenauer Reassuring

BONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer assured Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov today that planned West German counter-measures against East Germany will not worsen the international situation.

Afro-Asian Bloc 'Detached' In View of Berlin Crisis

LONDON (Reuters) — Most he believed neither the U.S. nor Russia wanted to go to war over Berlin.

In Cairo, President Gamal Abdel Nasser said recently that the United Arab Republic supports proposals for a united Germany. Nasser said the current crisis could only be solved by patience and negotiations.

GOOD CASE, BUT . . .

The most common reaction in reports from New Delhi, Cairo, Tunis, Kuala Lumpur and Jakarta was that the Berlin problem could only be resolved by an East-West accord through big power negotiations.

NEUTRALS CAN'T HELP

This view was held by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India. He told an Indian news magazine he did not believe the neutral powers could help the situation in any way except through expressions of concern.

He warned that the situation might lead to an East-West showdown even though

In Tunis, many Tunisian government officials believe France is using the East-West issue to force its allies to support French policy on Bizerte.

Tunisia wants France to leave the naval base.

Le Petit Matin of Tunis said that the "question of Bizerte is much more urgent."

INDIFFERENT TO CRISIS

Perhaps the most indifferent reaction to Berlin was noted in Kuala Lumpur.

The Malayan capital was virtually unmoved by the Berlin developments and news of them was given back-page treatment by several newspapers.

PRISON FIRE KILLS 34

TAUBATE, Brazil (UPI) — Authorities said today a fire in the city jail here which killed at least 34 prisoners Monday night was set by three convicts who also died in the blaze.

Three cell blocks were destroyed by fires set by the prisoners who were planning a mass jail-break.

on the property of Frank Doyle, 3375 Old West Road, it set fire to a 1/4-acre of brush, which Saanich firemen put out using their tank truck shortly after 9 p.m.

Another bolt hit west of Beaver Lake, doing no property damage, but knocking the telephone from a wall at one house, bursting a light bulb at the home of Mark Knowlson, 4724 West Saanich, and cancelling phone service.

CJVI OFF

Radio station CJVI was off the air for 20 minutes around 7 p.m., but it was not established whether it was through loss of power or other difficulty, a B.C. Electric spokesman said.

Television station CHEK also stopped transmitting the picture part of its program for about the same length of time. This was traced to blown fuses.

All power difficulties were overcome by about 7 p.m., mostly by replacing blown fuses in the 3200 block of Cadboro Bay Road, the Uplands and scattered points in the city. No lines fell.

TOUGH AUSSIE DOCKERS MAN-HANDLE PREMIER

rescued by police

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Union demonstrators invaded the Australian Parliament Building shouting and boozing today and one tried to grab Prime Minister Robert Menzies.

Police were called in after a man, shouting "Bob, Bob," grabbed Menzies' arm and tried to swing him around. An attendant intervened and pushed the man back.

Police later formed a chain to hold back demonstrators.

Arthur Calwell, the federal opposition leader, was drowned out by cries of "drop dead" and counter-cries of "let him speak," when he addressed the crowd.

The demonstrators included dockyard workers from Melbourne and Sydney who were protesting against unemployment and the government's decision to place orders abroad for destroyers.

Boy Drowns Near Home in Sooke

A three-year-old boy, who loved playing in the sea near his home at the foot of Wright Road in Sooke, drowned Monday afternoon in shallow water.

Dead is Dennis Hull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hull. There are five other children.

The father is an employee of Goodridge Sawmills Ltd.

Deputy coroner Harold Alder said there will be no inquest.

The drowning occurred at 3:30 p.m. There were a few people on the beach at the time but no one saw the accident which took place almost in front of the boy's home.

Sooke RCMP estimated the boy was in the water for about

NIKITA WARNS

Close Down U.S. Bases, Japan Told

TOKYO (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev today called on Japan to close down all American bases on its soil.

He made the appeal in a message handed over to Japanese Premier Hayato Ikeda by Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

Khrushchev coupled his call with a suggestion that Soviet-Japanese trade could be tripled or quadrupled in the next few years "if the two nations made unstinted endeavors."

"Japan's military alliance with the United States and the maintenance of foreign military bases in Japanese territory does not help in deepening mutual trust and normalizing relations between Japan and the Soviet Union," Khrushchev said.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today broke away from a cabinet session planning counter-measures against East Germans to meet with Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov.

The hour-long meeting, at Smirnov's request following his return from Moscow Monday, also was attended by West German Foreign Minister Heinrich-von Brentano.

He added that he hopes the time will come when all such foreign troops will be withdrawn and the military bases closed. Then, he said, friendly relations between Japan and Russia could be promoted.

ISSUES WARNING

At the same time he handed over Khrushchev's message, Mikoyan warned Ikeda that Japan will not be safe in any war as long as she continued her security treaty with the United States.

Khrushchev said in his message that differences between Japan and the Soviet Union in political and social systems should not be an obstacle in the way of effective co-operation between the two countries.

But, the message said, "I would like to emphasize that the Soviet Union has been asserting and will continue to assert in the future that military blocs and military bases of one nation in another should be wiped out completely."

Reports of Western reluctance to counter the tightening East German restrictions came in the wake of a Red threat to repeat the 1948-49 Berlin blockade if the Adenauer government cuts off trade with the east.

West Berliners already were expressing their indignation over the Western position.

"They're selling us down the river," said one.
